Released on Valentine's Day weekend in 1996, Sincerely Yours Love In Seattle was a box office success, grossing over $225 million worldwide. The film was also critically acclaimed, winning several awards including an Academy Award for Best Original Song.

The film stars Tom Hanks and Meg Ryan as two people who fall in love over the radio. Hanks plays Sam Baldwin, a widower who moves to Seattle with his young son, Jonah (played by Ross Malinger). Ryan plays Annie Reed, a Baltimore journalist who is engaged to Walter (played by Bill Pullman).

Sam and Annie first meet when Annie calls into Sam's radio show to talk about her love life. Sam is immediately smitten with Annie's voice and personality, and they begin to talk regularly on the air. As their relationship deepens, Sam and Annie decide to meet in person. However, their plans are thwarted when Annie's fiancé Walter proposes to her. Annie is torn between her feelings for Sam and her obligation to Walter, and she ultimately decides to marry Walter.

Sam is heartbroken when he learns that Annie is getting married, but he eventually moves on and finds happiness with another woman. However, he never forgets Annie, and he continues to listen to her radio show every day. Years later, Sam and Annie finally meet again, and they realize that they are still in love with each other.

Sincerely Yours Love In Seattle is a classic romantic comedy that is both heartwarming and funny. The film's success is due in large part to the chemistry between Hanks and Ryan. The two actors have a natural rapport, and they are able to create a believable and relatable love story.
